Inquiring on Social Capital's Inherent Agreement with Harmonious Society

[CN] Wen Zhou & Xiaohong Li

When it acts good, which needs two basic preconditions including nets are relatively stable and tight as well as formal institutions is efficient, social capital agrees with harmonious society inherently. In transition, the two preconditions can be 3 states. State 1 is two preconditions coming into existence. State 2 is formal institutions is low efficiency but nets are relatively stable and tight, in which social capital usually does bad. State 3 is formal institutions is low efficiency or vacancy, while nets is not stable or tight. Under this state, social capital can't act. Obviously, in the last two states, social capital doesn't agree with harmonious society but becomes problems that should be solved. According to experiential study on floating population's crime and country children, we get the policy suggestion of formal institutions' efficiency being the decisive factor for social capital acting well. So, it is necessary to improve formal institutions' efficiency by remedying institutions mistake and supplying new institutions to assure social capital acting good.
