The Foundation and the Route to the “Three Agriculture” Problem——Key points to Chinese Sustainable development [CN] Zhilong Xue

Abstracts : The matters concerned to the agriculture, the countryside and the peasants in which we called “Three Agriculture” problem is always a key focused problem for the central People’s government. This is also one of the most important social problem to our development of socialist market economy and our sustainable development. Western Economy’s research to agricultural development rule is only rest on experientially, ostensibly study, but the research of productivity develop theory of Marxism is much deeper. According to Marxism’s productivity theory, the fundamental reason to our city and rural’s incoming extremely polarization, especially for serious poverty of peasants, declined agriculture, and dilapidated countryside is the Household Register System, which is existing for a long time in China. Because the gap and the growing trends between different business area and productivity development couldn’t be the definite reason for the poverty of rural people. In precondition of free competition and productivity free movement, market economy disciplinary will autonomously measure people and productivity’s redistribution in different business area until the incoming level of each business area provide of and the average incoming of each business area’s productivity have come to an equilibrium. The vitals of our Household Registered System is manually restrict the accommodation of market economic rules. A lot of surplus agricultural people are locked in poor and indigent agricultural productivity. To resolve the problem of our agriculture, our countryside and the peasants is: A. should abolish Household Register System in scope of whole country, respect to people’s living right of free productivity movement in whole country, sufficiently exert on collocate ability of market mechanism on resources, population and productivity in all kinds of business parties and area; B. government should acclimate the request of economic rule, invest more effort on developing basic facility in cities, especially for middle size and small size cities, support spontaneously developed special commercial area, industry area, in which, surplus rural people from countryside are allowed to enter some trades in the cities; C. government should protect and increase labour’s especially hard area labour’s wage in way of national legislation, setup the mechanism that the lowest wage level in phase with the GDP’s increase pace; D. in the way of development of new rural place, we should operate the earth at scale, operate the rural products industrial, utilize the globalizational productivity division and modern agricultural knowledge, more scale, more industrial and more modernization; E. reform on national educational system, provide more efficient and practical living skill and knowledge training opportunity.
